YOU HAVE TO BE REGISTERED TO VOTE

Unless registration picks up dramatically between now and the deadline at 4:30 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon, tens of thousands of otherwise qualified voters in the Kansas City election district will not be eligible to cast a ballot on primary day, August 4. The rolls are down from the level of past years, and even then the 30 percentage of registered voters was not noteworthy.

This sorry decline is difficult to explain. A lack of interest, frustration over candidates and issues and a general feeling of hopelessness are possible. Even so, it is impossible to participate in the democratic process without registering first.

Frank Martin, chief clerk of the Kansas City election 20 board, estimates that if the slow tempo continues through next Wednesday, "we will be lucky very lucky, to have 185,000 people on the books."

The postal canvass will follow and Martin predicts that the number of strikeoffs will probably reach 10,000. If he is correct, only about 175,000 people in the Kansas 10 City district (that part of the city south of the Missouri river) will be able to exercise the franchise August 4.

A decade ago - in November of 1960 - there were 186,403 of them turned up at the polls on election day. If Martin's current estimates hold up, and with his long experience they usually come very close, there will be Nelson A. EVERY SUMMER NEEDS A CRISP LITTLE SUIT for keeping your city-slicker cool. From pavement-pounding to hopping a jet the safari look is big fashion game. A jacket with a pointed open collar, short puffed sleeves and three pockets is belted over front-pleated skirt (McCall's 2407). The outfit is obviously wise to the ways of the world. The sewing subject is crispness, how to get it and keep it. Try a pique fabric for a starter, even the word sounds crisp. Pick out the new perky little prints, so great this season. Now, let's go nderground with the construction experts at Coats & Clark's to see how the structure is shaped and reinforced.

Underground Sewing

It all depends on interfacing: an extra layer slipped between the outer fabric and the facing. Your pattern instructions will usually call for interfacing around a neckline, inside a collar and to re inforce a button and buttonhole area. There are also places no specified in the pattern where you may decide to include interfacing for a more professional finish. For example, a bias strip of musling will give body to the hem of a skirt, jacket, cuffless sleeves or full legged pants.

The fabric used for interfacing depends on the garment fabric and its function in the finished garment: reinforcement, body, o shaping. It should never be heavier than the garment fabric. Fabric may be specially made for interfacing or you may use a standar fabric, such as muslin or organdy, if it has the right qualities. I your fabric is washable or "drip-dry," the interfacing fabric mus be the same. Be sure that washable interfacing is preshrunk before you use it. Interfacing fabric is either woven or non-woven. Wove fabric has to be cut on the same grain as the facing and outer fabric but has the plus quality of "give." Non-woven fabric can be cut i any direction, but is not as easily manipulated,

The Invisible Factor

If there is no interfacing pattern, use the pattern for the facing pieces. Clip off the outer corners of interfacing on such pieces as col lars and cuffs. On the free edge of a neck interfacing, trim away 3%" and if the fabric is ravelly, make a line of stitching 14" from the edge. Where an interfacing adjoins a zipper opening, remove % from each side. Interfacing is applied to each section before any kind of stitching is done, including stay-stitching. Once a garment is finished, the interfacing becomes invisible, but you know it there by the way it keeps an outfit in shape.

Jobless Rate Shows Slight Dip

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's unemployment rate dropped in June for the first time this year although an additional 1.3 million Americans sought unsuccessfully to find

The seeming contradiction was attributed by the Labor Department Thursday to the fact that the number of adult women and teen-agers seeking work fell far below expectations. The department also reported, without elaboration, the jobless rate for Negroes rose from 8 to 8.7 per ient last month. returning to the April level after a dip in May.

The nonwhite

unemployment rate was 7 per cent a year ago and 7.1 per cent in March 1970. The 15-year low in nonwhite unemployment was 5.7 per cent in February 1.69. The over-all unemployment rate for June was 4.7 per cent, compared with 5 per cent in May and 3.4 per cent a year ago. Nixon administration officials have predicted the rate will hit 51/2 per cent before dropping again toward the 4 per cent

The number of unemployed Americans totaled 4.7 million last month, a rise of 1.3 million over May. The civilian labor force increased 2.3 million to 84.1

The government said the increase in the labor force—those Americans working or actively seeking jobs was much smaller than had been expected. The Labor Department had predicted 2.5 million teen-agers would seek work in early June but the actual total was only 2 million.

The employment figures are compiled from a complicated seasonal-adjustment formula which takes into account what could be expected in the labor market at any time of the year.

The Labor Department said for the first time in eight months the jobless rate of adult males did not rise. The rate for teen-agers remained unchanged. This increase failed to match rising consumer prices and resulted in an effective 1.8 per cent reduction in earnings, the Labor Department said.

BROWNOUTS?

"Where has all the power gone?" may be tune sung by easterners this summer. A hot spell could lead to serious power shortages in five major cities and a "brownout" could extend along most of the east coast except for Florida and New England, according to a report from the President's Office of Emergency Preparedness. Main reason for possible shortages is utilities have inadequate capacity to generate enough power to supply millions of air conditioners operating at top cooling levels. Map shows areas threatened.

Shows to Be Back Strong

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The police show, virtually under a network imposed restraining order since the violent issue flared up, is coming back strong. Last year, one new police show was added to the schedules. This fall the number is four. Five other shows with police backgrounds will be back. Two are going off—the "Protectors" segment of the "Bold Ones," which was the new show last year, and "Dragnet," which has been around long enough to claim a pension. Here are the new shows:

—"Dan August," which stars Burt Reynolds, is about a hardworking college-trained detective lieutenant in a California coastal city. He is described as antiestablishment, yet a member of it.

-''Most Deadly Game'' is a mystery series about a trio of master criminologists who solve a bizarre murder each week. It stars George Maharis, Yvette Mimieux and Ralph Bellamy.

"The Silent Force" is a secret unit of the Justice Department which works underground against organized crime. This half-hour show stars Ed Nelson, Lynda Day and Percy Rodrigues (cq). Like the two above, it will be on ABC.

"McCloud," which will run for six episodes on NBC's "Four in One," stars Dennis Weaver as a New Mexico marshal assigned to the New York City police. "If the cop shows are coming back, it's because people want to deal with relevant issues and a way to get down to the nitty gritty is the cop show," said Quinn Martin, producer of "Dan August" and the "FBI." "I wanted to do something about what's going on today. I thought about maybe using a newspaperman, but you get more resolution with a police show. Our basis is that Dan August is a young man who by education could do many things, but his attitude and desire make him want to make the world a

Artist Loses Control After Selling Work

And, if anyone sees it, my reputation as a sculptor will be ruined as well!" "That's rediculous," responded a city official. "Michael's just being oversensitive like most artists. The changes made weren't very drastic. Besides, we ordered the statue and we paid for it. It's ours to do with as we choose. If we wanted to, we could even paint

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the statue removed and destroyed because of the city's tinkering This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when an artist completes a piece of work and he is paid for it, he loses all power and control over it. (Based upon a 1938 Pennsylvania
